

The number of telemarketing calls I get now is totally out of hand. Although I always tell them to stop calling me, it seems that many don't listen to me, and there are just more calls every week. What I want is for telemarketers to stop calling me. Telephone calls are annoying!

I am getting more and more of these "hang-up" calls that are from telemarketers too. These hang-up calls are more annoying than the telemarketing calls themselves! How can they call me, and then not have the common courtesy of being there when I answer the phone?

I am getting more and more of these computer calls too. They almost never tell who they are, and they want you to "press 1" for more information. I don't want to press "1" and get more sales pitches - I want them to stop making these calls but there is no way to know who they are! This is frustrating!

Please set regulations that allow me to choose when I want to search out new products and services--and NOT allow someone else to invade my house unrequested.

Thank you for this opportunity to comment.

Harley H. Cudney